WaterSC
Water Security Channel

The Water Security Channel (WaterSC) · a service of the Water Information Sharing and Analysis Center (WaterISAC) · electronically disseminates bulletins and advisories issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The WaterSC also maintains a password-protected Internet library of federal advisories. The WaterSC is a partnership between the water sector and the federal government and is funded by a grant from the U.S. EPA. All drinking water and wastewater utilities are encouraged to participate in this free federal advisory service.

The WaterISAC is designed for those in the water sector who want to access the WaterISAC's ultra-secure knowledge base or receive alerts and advisories both from the federal government and a number of non-federal intelligence sources as well. In addition to federal advisories, the WaterISAC's expansive web site contains a wealth of other information: three contaminant databases, white papers on various water security topics, access to vulnerability assessment tools, a bulletin board for secure communication among subscribers and many other items that are not available elsewhere or that would require substantial research. Subscribing to the WaterISAC requires a nominal fee.

You can find WaterSC at http://www.watersc.org.